

Women's Roundtable

We meet on fourth Monday evenings January-April and August-November, at the homes of members.

Launched in January 2007, this group invites the women of Morningside—and the community at large—to come together as a roundtable where we can connect through sharing knowledge, ideas and concerns. The MPC Women's Roundtable invites a dynamic speaker each month to address a topic affecting our lives, either personally or as part of the community around us. Each Roundtable evening includes dinner, time for fellowship and an inspired intellectual conversation at a home here in the Morningside neighborhood.

Our speakers have included distinguished speaker and author Saleemah Abdul-Ghafar sharing her experiences as an American Muslim woman, Pulitzer Prize Winning playwright Maggie Eidson, Jordanian immigrant Luma Mufleh who has created the thriving non-profit Fugees Family, a renowned storyteller, an immigration lawyer, a retired air force colonel and so much more. We have also taken time to get to know each other at Talking & Tapas evenings.

This summer, we seek to stay connected through small group outings that can range from bowling to an evening of Shakespeare, movies or bridge. We will share the details on the events that are planned by mid-May and all are welcome to participate. Contact Betsy Holland at 404-799-1812 or betsy.holland@turner.com with questions or to be added to the e-mail list.
